

The secret of teaching is to appear to have known all your life what you just learned this afternoon.